Qualifications

Please describe your relevant analytical skills.

I am currently employed by the state adjudicating the medical portion of disability claims filed through SSA. In order to determine eligibility, I must analyze hundreds and at times thousands of pages of medical records and derive a functional assessment from that data. This requires looking at esoteric content and extrapolating the valuable from the extraneous which is particularly challenging because the content was produced to aid in medical treatment, rather than functional assessments. Additionally, I am uniquely qualified because of my daily requirement to interpret federal policies and guidelines. In the more than five years that I have been employed, I have been promoted twice and received three other meritorious raises. I am often sought out to take part in discussion work groups because of my strengths in communication, information processing, and developing solutions that are practical and implementable.

Please describe your ability to be impartial.

The very nature of my job that I described above requires that I analyze data. It does not allow me to develop a relationship or "root" for any particular outcome. I think impartiality is essential in any government work and we are fortunate that this redistricting committee is being staffed without political consideration. I am aware of the pitfalls that make impartiality difficult, and I do my best to consider the needs and desires of those around me, regardless of how different we might be.

Please describe your appreciation for the City of Austin's diverse demographics and geography.

I believe my ability to be impartial and my appreciation for this city's diversity is tied to the relationships I have in the community. I work part-time at a church in central/east Austin that was planted by another larger church in west Austin. This, along with our mission to be a racially-diverse congregation, has made evident the both socioeconomic and racial divides in the city. It is special to me that I get to share a small community and spend this amount of time with people of all walks of life. I too have learned that Austin is segregated by pretty clear lines. This lends depth of community, but can also contribute to divisions. I believe there is room to value the diversity without splitting the city further along these class and racial lines.

Please provide any other information you wish to be considered during the selection of the most qualified applicants for the Commission.

I moved to the Austin area in February 2007. I have lived in 78653, 78704, 78757, and bought my home in 78752. I have worked in 78704, 78741, 78753, and 78722. I have grown to love this city and am no stranger to any part of it. I live, shop, and socialize in every part of Austin. I would consider it an honor to aid in making our government a more accurate representation of its citizens.
